To save a life...

A new life support litter designed to mechanically breathe, provide a heartbeat and generally support the life of a patient during transportation is demonstrated by Belle Glade firemen Mike Gressinger (kneeling), Jesse Wommack (on the stretcher) and Richard Guzman (standing). The unit, which folds into a handy 75-pound transportable package cost the fire department $2,675 but Chief Pete Webb termed it "priceless" when it comes to rescue work. Wommack pointed out that the unit works automatically and can be plugged into ambulances or at the hospital. Everything is powered by oxygen pressure and the litter carries its own supply of two 16-minute tanks.

Solid waste plan referred to cities

BELLE GLADE—Plans to set up a $3.1 million solid waste disposal system in the Glades were approved Monday by the Palm Beach County Solid Waste Authority, along with a proposal for a steering committee to head up the project.

Authority Executive Director Tim Hunt was directed to contact the Palm Beach County Commission and city officials in Belle Glade, South Bay and Pahokee to ask them for concurring resolutions on both the plan and to appoint representatives to the committee.

The plan was presented by representatives of Barker, Osha and Anderson and Leonard S. Wegman Co. and calls for a new 14-acre landfill in the Belle Glade area, a 100-ton per day incinerator which could be enlarged and converted to produce energy later and a composting facility.

The facilities would be placed on 36 acres of land and would have an initial capital cost of $3,133,000 and an annual operating cost of $764,000.

County Commissioner Bill Bailey, the Glades representative of the commission and a new member of the Solid Waste Authority, made the motion to approve the plans and to set up the inter-government committee which could eventually be given the position of owning and operating the system.

County Commissioner Dennis Koehler, another new member of the authority, promptly nominated Bailey, with the unanimous consent of the other authority members, as the authority's representative on the steering committee.

Hunt's immediate job will be to get each of the other governmental agencies involved to write resolutions supporting the authority's stand and to get each to name a representative on the steering committee.

"The most significant single part of the proposal," Baker, Osha and Anderson representative Charles Anderson told the authority members, "is the input of the citizens and people responsible for the collection and disposal of solid waste in the Glades."

The study presented to the Authority outlined a total of seven alternate plans of action, with alternates for each of those bringing the total number of possibilities to 14.

Wegman representative Harold Johnson, when Koehler pointed out that the alternate proposed is the third most expensive of all proposals and wanted to know why that particular plan was recommended, said it could wind up by being the least expensive of the lot.

Johnson explained that the particular combination of solutions has the best chance of any of the alternatives of getting federal and state aid.

He and Anderson stressed that the capital outlay cost doesn't take into consideration the possibility of getting help in the form of grants, loans or state bonds.

Johnson went on to say that the innovativeness of the plan, combined with the fact it is being undertaken as a joint effort of the Solid Waste Authority, the county and the three cities in the western part of the county, means the project may be funded 100% by one or more federal grants.

He said the best possibility of getting help could be from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, with the chance of getting the USEPA to but time nears when owners may have little choice

Poor response seen on lot mowing proposal

BELLE GLADE—The response from local property owners, who once had their property mowed free of charge by city forces, has been poor to a proposal they pay the city for mowing grass on that same property...but the time may be drawing near when they have little choice.

The city proposal to mow vacant lots inside the city limits while charging the owners came as a result of commission action in June which stopped the former practice of free mowing.

City Clerk June Boglioli said her office mailed approximately 200 letters to owners of private property the city has been maintaining and Buildings and Grounds Superintendent Roy Snyder said he has received 15 responses.

Snyder stressed, however, those 15 responses represented more than 15 parcels of land, that while a letter was sent out by the city on each parcel, some of the responses represented two or more parcels.

The city stopped mowing private property Oct. 1. Municipal mowers and tractors had been maintaining an estimated 162 acres of land at a yearly expense to the city of at least $17,470.

Snyder said the 15 property owners who the city is now mowing property for represent about a quarter of that 162 acres. He said the owners are being charged a minimum of $10 per mowing.

That figure goes up when the piece of property is larger or takes longer to mow at the rate of $10 per hour. Snyder said the owners will be billed monthly on a basis of mowing each piece of property 15 times a year.

City Commissioner Kenneth Harris said that while no action has been taken yet for owners who haven't responded to the city's invitation, and who are failing to maintain their own property, that action may not be far off.

The city has an ordinance requiring owners to keep the grass on their property cut back to less than 24 inches or the city has the right to cut the grass and charge the owner.

"You don't have to cut grass as often in the winter as you do in the summer," Harris noted, "but in two or three months, something will have to be done."

Snyder pointed out that at the rate of $10 per hour, the city isn't making a profit, that it's only meeting minimum costs, and owners probably couldn't contract with a private individual to have the grass cut as inexpensively.

The original suggestion to contact property owners to see if they would voluntarily pay to have their grass cut was made by Commissioner Aubrey Farmer, who was the only commissioner to vote against a motion in June that the city begin enforcing its ordinance requiring property owners to maintain their own property.

That ordinance has never been enforced although it's been on the books for years.

Getting the city to enforce that ordinance was for some time a major project of City Commissioner Tom Altman.

Snyder said that if other property owners want their grass cut by the city, they can do so by contacting him at 996-8550 or by writing him at 2050 West Canal St. South. He suggested that owners leave a phone number because the property to be mowed is often not at the owner's home address.

Garbage pickup changed

BELLE GLADE—City residents will soon have a new garbage and trash collection schedule which will mean one fewer stop per week by collection trucks and one fewer work days for collection crews.

City garbage trucks currently make two residential pickups per week for garbage and one for trash but after a suggestion by City Manager Robert Sanders, the crews will work four ten-hour days per week and pick up trash along with garbage.

Sanders said the suggestion came from the Public Utilities Department and is also meant to cut down on absenteeism among employees.

"Right now," Sanders said, "we have three trucks with three drivers and six collectors and on any given day, we have one man absent, sometimes more, thus creating a hardship on the others."

"This results in poor service to our customers," he said. "With a four day week, I believe, and the Sanitation Superintendent concurs, that absenteeism will be decreased, morale raised and service improved."

Sanders also said he believes the move will save the city $2,574 per year and will mean more regular maintenance on the trucks can be performed, which represents further savings. Sanders recommended the new service begin Jan. 17, with all customers being notified before then.

He said another change would be that trash would be picked up at the curb. Garbage would continue to be picked up at the back door. He said trash should be packed in plastic bags.

In another move concerning garbage pickup, the commission rescinded the approval of a bid made two weeks ago to Watson Ford for a back-end garbage loader and made it instead to Southland Equipment, an out-of-town company.

The change came at the suggestion of Sanders, who said that while the Southland bidder is higher and the commission would normally award the bid to a local company, the city needs the truck now.

The Southland bid promises immediate delivery while the Watson bid specifies 30 days before delivery is made.

Watson's bid was for $22,974 and the Southland bid was for $23,495.

In other business, the commission:

Agreed to a health insurance program which stipulates former Belle Glade resident Hub Spooner will be the agent of record. The will be the agent of record. The decision to make Spooner agent of record was against the recommendation of City Finance Director Frank Anderson, who said he thought the agent should be someone having no interest in insurance.

Spooner told the commission he would give better service and if the commissioners decided to give the agent's job to anyone else, it would be, "a travesty of justice."

Passed a resolution limiting the time any commissioner can debate a given issue to 15 minutes. Commission Tom Altman voted against the measure and commented it will be interesting, "the first time you try to enforce it"

Vo Tech plans told

Architect Carroll Peacock gives members of the Glades Vocational Technical Center Advisory Committee an update on progress of plans for a proposed center in the Glades during a luncheon meeting at Glades Central at noon Tuesday. A list of 15 subjects with their priorities which have been approved for study were presented to the committee and the members were told the center is expected to be open for business by the fall of 1978. Groundbreaking is expected to take place sometime next summer on the 67,000 square foot building at SR 715 and Hooker Highway.

Blue Devils defeat stubborn Miners 8-7; play for state championship Friday night

Fire Department operates marine base station

The new marine base radio station operated by the Pahokee Fire Department has already proved its worth. Since its installation on Tuesday, Fire Chief Cecil Phillips estimates that 20 boats have been directed to safety.

On Dec. 8 at 6:50 p.m., Phillips, the nighttime operator, received a distress signal from the Margie K. Vessel where three men were aboard a sinking boat located 1 1/2 miles North of the Pahokee Harbor. They were guided into the Harbor aided by Patrolman Jimmy Wagner and Harbormaster Robert Alred who were contacted by Phillips. Wagner parked his police car so that the Margie K. could see its revolving lights and thus travel in the right direction. Alred was present to pump the water from the boat.

Another call was received on Sunday, Dec. 12 at 9:00 p.m. from the Blue Diamond located 20 miles North of Pahokee. A man, his wife and six children were stranded in an anchored boat; they contacted the station through their CB radio. Chief Phillips was able to reach two other subjects in the area on the marine radio and directed them to the scene. The Blue Diamond was rescued to shore within 25 minutes.

The Pahokee Fire Dept. operates both a CB and a marine radio. Asst. Chief Danny Denton operates the marine radio during the day. The big advantage of the marine radio is its power and freedom of interference from outside sources, according to Phillips. Subjects in need of help should signal "Mayday" of "This is an emergency" and give the name of the vessel for easy contact. The marine radio should be equipped with at least 25 watts of power.

"The Pahokee location is ideal," said Phillips, "since it is located at a midpoint in both North-South and East-West directions." To improve the efficiency of the radio system, he stated, "The Pahokee Fire Dept. is operating a marine base radio and CB Radio (Ch. 9) freely and voluntarily. We would really appreciate it if all CBers in the vicinity would stand by when this station is trying to reach an emergency on land or water trying to save a life; for one day that life might be yours."

PAHOKEE - The Pahokee Blue Devils triumphed over Fort Meade in an 8-7 win in the class 2A semifinal playoff game here Friday night.

Fort Meade, scored first, in the second quarter, when John Mack recovered a Pahokee fumble at the 3 yard line and carried it in for the touchdown. Selmon Cannon kicked the extra point giving Fort Meade a 7-0 lead in the first half.

Leroy Jackson scored the single Pahokee touchdown with a three yard run in the third quarter. Sophomore quarterback, Ronnie Osborne, then ran for the two-point conversion, making the score 8-7.

Leroy Jackson led Pahokee's ground attack with 91 yards on 15 carries. Osborne had 53 yards on 18 carries and Bernard Jackson compiled 65 yards on 16 carries. Fort Meade's Ronnie Albritton led the minor defense and stopped Pahokee's inside game.

The Blue Devils overcame semi-final championship losses from 1973 and again in 1975. The Devils practiced in Tallahassee on Thursday and Friday.

WSWN, Belle Glade, will be broadcasting the game Friday night.

Kickoff time is 9 p.m. Pahokee time and the pre-game program will be aired at 8:30 p.m.

Council approves housing hook-up

By a 3 to 2 vote, the Pahokee City Council approved the hookup of the proposed Pee-Hokee, LTD. housing project to Pahokee's sewer lines. The project will provide a limit of 177 additional housing units.

The sewer plant can adequately take care of 177 units along with the rest of the customers, according to Bill Cross, Director of City Utilities in Pahokee. Infiltration problems at the McClure site and Fremd Village have been remedied so the capacity of the plant should be improved, Cross said.

Councilmen Robert Welty and A. J. Gamot voted against the resolution with Ray Hatton and Mayor Duncan Padgett having yes votes. Wyomia Cummings, Councilwoman, gave her approval after stating, "I think subsidized housing creates moral crimples, but the project will bring in additional revenues and help the citizens who need housing in this city."

Fire totals old nursery

PAHOKEE - A fire occurred at Mrs. Armstrong's old nursery, W. 3rd Street in Pahokee at 10 a.m. Saturday.

The fire totaled a storage house at the nursery, according to Fire Chief Cecil Phillips, and arson is the expected cause.

Two fire trucks were dispatched to the scene where it took 30 minutes to get the fire under control.

The incident is under investigation at this time, said Phillips.

Hatton suggest change in franchise

PAHOKEE Southeast Cablevision's request for an increase in cable TV rates was kicked around by the council Tuesday night with councilman, Ray Hatton questioning the justifiability of a rate increase.

Harry Franklin, of C.E. Cablevision, said he has three different rates. He said he must pay a copyright fee to the FCC on imported signals giving them a 2.2% increase in their cost.

Sitting an 8% increase from inflation over the past year and installation charge increases from the price of steel and aluminum going up, Franklin feels the rate increase is justified.

The City of Pahokee is permitting a charge of $5 month for the service and Franklin would like to raise it to $10.40 matching the rates of his other systems. The main advantage of Cablevision to the city is the franchise fee they must pay to operate. Hatton proposed that the cable service be put on a free enterprise system where they could change the rate structure themselves without the city being involved.

Franklin refused to disclose profit-loss data on his business and Hatton did not feel the increase was justified by the data he did disclose.

The city attorney is to draw up a plan on the subjects.

Tax district gets commission approval

WEST PALM BEACH - An ordinance creating an unincorporated area municipal service taxing district has been passed unanimously by Palm Beach County Commissioners.

The act, which will be a guideline in efforts to equalize taxes between municipalities and the unincorporated area of the county, could be implemented next Oct. 1, start of the next fiscal year.

No referendum was required to pass the ordinance, empowered by Florida Statutes.

In effect, the act will permit the commission to levy additional property taxes, up to a 10 mill cap, make service charges, special assessments or other funding sources to furnish "municipal services" in the unincorporated section.

Among listed purposes, the ordinance reads, in part: "in order to establish a more equitable tax structure between residents of the incorporated and unincorporated areas of Palm Beach County and to eliminate the possibility of residents of the incorporated areas, paying for services which exclusively benefit residents of the unincorporated area."

Persons living outside municipal limits and who own property have been paying a special tax the past two fiscal years to support the Sheriff's road patrol. The new ordinance will expand - or could expand - those special taxes for other municipal-type services.

Such services are to be determined for recommendation to the commission by Budget Director Joe Steelman and a select committee. Steelman previously broke out services primarily for unincorporated areas at the request of the Palm Beach County Municipal League.

The league, through spokesman William Cruikshank, supported the ordinance at Tuesday's meeting.

Others spoke against it; some asking the board to postpone action until a Charter Study Commission was appointed and made its recommendations.

George Frost, manager of the Town of Palm Beach and a member of the municipal league's Dual Taxation Committee, informed commissioners:

"It's time for the cities to stop paying an unfair share of taxes." Daniel Shanahan of the Federation of Boca Raton Homeowners Association said he wanted a tax budget breakdown, regardless of results.

"Let the facts show what's fair," he said.

In other business, the commission

-Deferred action for a week on an ordinance, rescinding the current Senior Citizens Planning Council ordinance. The board a week previous agreed to restructure the council.

-Agreed to go ahead with $100,000 in construction for the extension of Okeechobee Road from Royal Palm Beach to Loxahatchee even though responsibility for a necessary bridge has not been determined. The county has asked the court for a mandatory injunction to direct either Indian Trail Water Control District and/or Royal Palm Beach County to construct the bridge across a drainage canal.

Farm Front by Doyle Conner

Agricultural land is valuable

Developmental interests may ignore or deride efforts to protect and preserve prime agricultural lands. And it is difficult to defend protection of prime farmland on economic grounds when you consider that the monetary value of land can be multiplied many times when the land is used to build housing.

But prime farmland has other values which are not included in the market value. In the words of Ian McHarg (Design With Nature): "The farm is the basic factory — the farmer is the county's best landscape gardener and maintenance work force, the custodian of much scenic beauty. Mere market values of farmlands do not reflect the long-range or the irreplaceable nature of these living soils. An omnibus protection of all farmland is difficult to defend; but protection of the best soils in a metropolitan area would appear not only defensible, but clearly desirable."

When farming is attempted on less than prime soils a great deal of investment in fertilizers and fossil fuels becomes necessary. The use of significant amounts of these commodities has a degrading effect on the water resources of an agricultural region. Fertilizer runoff enriches our streams and lakes and leads to the growth of algae which uses up the oxygen in the water. It also interferes with fish life in the streams and lakes when sports fishes such as bass are displaced by trash fish.

Thus by maximizing use of prime agriculture soils for crops, society is minimizing the amount of nutrient subsidies and fossil fuels for a given amount of agricultural products. Therefore, prime agricultural lands have ecological significance because they are uniquely suited to intensive cultivation with no conservation hazards.

Prime agricultural lands are important not only because of the crops they will produce but also because of the people who are employed directly or indirectly in agriculture. From one-third to one-fourth of our work force is employed in the business of producing, transporting, processing, warehousing and retailing food products even though only about nine percent is engaged in directly raising crops and livestock.

Public policy should encourage the preservation of prime farmland because of its contribution to the state's food supply, economy, employment, ecology and aesthetic beauty. Planning agencies should identify prime agricultural land and map the designated areas for special treatment as agricultural preserves.

"On the job training" answer to employment

BELLE GLADE-For Glades area workers who can't find a job because they don't have the right skills for the jobs that are open; for those area employers who can't find someone with the skills they need, Johnnie Webb of the Urban League thinks he has the answer... or answers.

"The On the Job Training" program, Webb said, may be the answer to job openings with potential employers. We can give each potential employee a pre-job placement interview and counsel them before the employer ever sees that potential employee."

Besides screening the OJT participants, Webb said the Urban League will absorb at least some of the cost of training the employer usually absorbed by the employer. "If an employer selects one of our referred people for a skilled position," he said, "under ordinary circumstances, he would have to bear the full training cost.

"Fortunately," Webb said, "we aren't talking about ordinary circumstances because with on the job training, we can decrease training costs by anywhere from 10 to 50 percent."

Webb said the Urban League program would pay up to $75 a week for training an OJT worker, pointing out the training period must last a minimum of four weeks and a maximum of 44 weeks.

"By the way," he said, "if an employer is concerned about red tape and paper work, they can forget it. 'We'll handle the bulk of it.'"

On the other side of the employment coin, Webb said the Urban League can enroll unskilled workers in the Urban League Manpower Occupational Training School in West Palm Beach.

Webb said the school is particularly aimed at the unemployed, the underemployed, the economically disadvantaged, the unskilled, heads of households and veterans. He said the training goes on for 30 hours a week and the participant is paid $2.30 an hour for taking part in the program while receiving training, "even complete courses toward the GED (General Equivalency Diploma)," he said.

"We don't have an age criterion," Webb said, "but we do try to get someone with a 10th grade education or the equivalent."

Webb said the first step toward either job so far as the participant goes is a screening and testing to determine what the applicant is capable of handling.

After counseling, he said, the potential participant is assigned to study one of the numerous curricula available.

Xi Iota Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held its Dec. 7 meeting at the home of Mrs. Jeannette Cameron.

Plans were finalized for the annual Christmas party to be held Dec. 17.

Mrs. Echo Painter and Mrs. Janis Flieth presented the program. Mrs. Painter's program was on fine arts; canvas and clay. She presented a history of art with prints from her private collection to show the different types of art in the different periods of history.

Mrs. Flieth's program was also on fine arts, communicating with music. A former music major in college, she has an account of a concert tour her college choir from Capital University, Columbus, Ohio was on in 1962.

They were in West Berlin when the Berlin Wall was less than a year old and were taken across the border into East Berlin to give a concert at the Lutheran Church. At great risk to their lives, 2,000 East Berliners filled the church to hear the choir sing. It had been the only contact they had had with the "outside world" since the wall had been built.

To the American choir, it was a vivid example of how music is a universal language and can touch the hearts of people world-wide.

Mrs. Cameron served her guests a fruit dessert. Attending the meeting were: Mrs. Mickey Harris, Mrs. Alicia Gimenez, Mrs. Hortensia Guerrero, Mrs. Liz Crockett, Mrs. Flieth, Mrs. Mary Frances Burke, Mrs. Anna Mae Chapman, Mrs. Sandy White, Mrs. Cynthia Humphrey, Mrs. Naomi Conley, Mrs. Betha La Chance, Mrs. Mary Edens and Mrs. Painter.

Other members attending were: Mrs. J.A. Ball, Jr., Mrs. Ruth Wedgworth, Mrs. Charles B. Trammel, Mrs. John Thompson, Mrs. Pablo Vincent, Mrs. Karl E. Larsen, Mrs. Howard Lamb, Mrs. Carl C. Lockmiller, Mrs. R.Y. Creech, Jr., Mrs. Thomas Bregger and Mrs. Luther W. Jones.

He said the programs, and the Urban League, have been in Belle Glade for the past year and offer opportunities in such diverse careers as air conditioning and refrigeration, business education, and auto body and mechanics.

Anyone interested in looking into the programs can do so by contacting Webb at 996-6330 or coming into the office at 425 South Main St.

Council asks bid extension

Bids let

Bids on the City of Pahokee's wastewater treatment plant rehabilitation have already been made. City Attorney Ralph Johnson announced at Tuesday's council meeting, but the Farmer's Home Administration must adopt the resolution first, the attorney was advised by Bill Weather's of the F.H.A.

In many cases a bond could be sold before the project started, but funds, but the F.H.A. bond commitment will come only after validation proceedings, Johnson said.

The council agreed to ask the present successful bidder for an extension on the bid until such validation is made.

MENTAL HEALTH UNIT

Marc Hazebruk, of the Mental Health Unit, addressed the city council Tuesday night concerning new location for his recreation and counseling program for youth in the community.

Hazebruk has been using the Rinker building in Pahokee, but he must be out of the building by the end of the month. The council agreed to let him use the theatre building, making repairs without cost to the city for a period of months. Then permanent use of the building will be decided on.

The theatre building will be leased when the city receives the deed for the building. Mayor Padgett expressed his opinion that the building is "Too big for too small a group and should be used to serve a large number of people, around 200."

Hazebruk's program is open to any youngster and is presently open in the evenings and a few days during the week for office purposes.

LIBRARY

Because of the relatively small cost involved, no bids have been received for the repairing of the Loula V. York Memorial Library in Pahokee. It is believed that the repairing can be accomplished for less than $500.

The commission agreed that advertising for bids on new carpeting, drapes and other interior improvements should be done now since it is a slow process, although these improvements will be held until the leaking roof has been repaired.

Mrs. Jess Elliott, chairman of the library, and Evelyn Bronson of the Xi Beta Tau sorority, at the council meeting, both expressed interests in improving the building.

Fishing improves

Fishing showed some improvements in the Belle Glade area over the past week. "However, we are all looking forward to better fishing conditions," said Nan Corbin of Slim's Fish Camp.

According to Mrs. Corbin, lots of fishermen were out this weekend as everyone is practicing for the big tournament coming up in January.

On Friday Buddy Ramsey of Pahokee brought in nine bass using plastic worms. The week's largest catch came in from Joseph B. Semrad of Tequesta. Semrad brought in an 11 1/2 pound beauty using plastic Hummer Haws.

Brothers Bobby and Terry Soles of Mangonia Park also took their limit of 20 bass on Saturday. Frank Blocker and Lee Arden of Fort Lauderdale reported that speck fishing is picking up again. Blocker and Arden brought their limit of 100 specks using jigs on Saturday.

Another Fort Lauderdale fisherman, Joe Hayes, also reported speckled perch action over the weekend. Joe brought in 35 specks on Sunday afternoon.

Fishing is expected to improve over the few weeks and all those new rods and reels under the Christmas tree should come in real handy in 1977.

Air pollution down

The Environmental Protection Agency has new data showing a substantial improvement in American's air, especially in N.Y. and Los Angeles, two of America's most polluted cities. The Glades area and Palm Beach County, as a whole has shown a general overall improvement in air quality, according to Bill Arlington, Fla. Sugar Cane League Environmental Specialist, but it has not been dramatic.

Arlington said they have collected over a half year of data on the quality of this area but they do not have data yet for this year.

Students question

"Roosevelt"

Students of East-Lake Middle School in Pahokee took part in a mock press conference last Friday from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. with President Teddy Roosevelt.

"Reporters" for the press conference were 6th, 7th and 8th grade students at the school who studied Teddy Roosevelt and his era. The students were transported back in time to 1909 during Roosevelt's final day of press conferences before leaving office. The "reporters" asked questions through the cooperation of the students to Roosevelt and his administration, with special emphasis on health and nutrition.

Professional actor Bob Boyd portrays Teddy Roosevelt in part of a statewide tour which has drawn raves from Florida educators. Over 60,000 students have participated in the program and it will begin national tour in 1977.

The program is sponsored by the Florida Department of Citrus and is being made available through the cooperation of the Florida Department of Education, Food and Nutrition Section.

Autopsy indicates man shot

PAHOKEE-The autopsy conducted Monday on a victim identified as Lonnie Junior Hylton, found Sunday morning floating face down in canal five miles west of the Pahokee Produce Inc. bridge, has revealed a bullet wound in the victim's head, according to Detective Joseph E. Kardel, investigating officer.

The body, removed from the canal by Karel, Det. Albert Harper of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office, Glades sub-station and two passing motorists, was taken to the county medical examiner's office by C.R. Wetherington, Ambulance Service, Assisted medical examiner Carl Bartelmann made a preliminary check of the body at that time.

Items found on the victim were a driver's license and a book of 20 dresses and phone numbers. He was wearing an orange T-shirt, blue pants and brown boots. Harper contacted Clare D. McCarter of Manassas, Va., who Carter reported she had a son, age 19 with brown hair and blue eyes, fitting the description of the victim. The investigation is continuing.

pay for the entire initial cost.

Other possible funding sources won't be ignored though, including the Farmers Home Administration, which the experts said has funds available for this type of project. One problem with that source, however, is that the FmHA won't fund projects for cities with a population of more than 10,000 which means Belle Glade's portion wouldn't be funded.

Johnson said the cooperative nature of the venture also increases the possibility of financial aid through state bonds.

Another way the cost could be held down is that while the authority is planning to ask for state land adjacent to the sewage treatment plant in Belle Glade, the plan doesn't allow for the savings that would mean.

Most of that land, whether the state gives it to the project or whether it is purchased, will go to a sanitary landfill to handle waste the incinerator can't consume, incinerator residue and bulky items such as junked appliances.

Another part of the land will be used for the composting operation, which will take care of sewage treatment plant sludge and chipped vegetable waste.

Johnson said one of the problems in the past, with compost plants as a means of waste disposal is that they've always been considered a profit-oriented operation. The compost generated by the Glades operation about 3,000 tons a year is to be even away.

"It could still be considered an income-producing item, though," Johnson said, "because it represents a savings of funds you won't have to spend on the landfill."

The incinerator proposed by the engineers would be of a modular type which could be easily expanded at a later date.

A 25-ton per day addition is expected to be needed by 1988 and that should complete the requirements for the area for the next 30 years.

Another possibility the incinerator offers is the generation of energy which could be used later to provide power to either the city or local industries.

That possibility was the subject of a survey for the study but no one indicated interest at that time. The engineers pointed out that with the continuing rise of costs for energy, the proposal might look more attractive in the future.

Authority member Lake Lytal, another new member named from the Palm Beach County Commission, also suggested that when it comes to planning the collection of garbage which will be disposed of by the system those plans should be made with an eye toward the possibility of acquiring federal and state funding.

Marijuana recovered by Sheriff's helicopter

BELLE GLADE—A sheriff's department helicopter crew and a vice agent recovered 900 lbs. of marijuana Sunday in the savanna of US 27, about 33 miles southwest of South Bay.

A hunter discovered the three packets of marijuana when he saw them fall to the ground from an unidentified aircraft.

According to Sgt. John Raulerson of the Glades sub-station, the helicopter crew asked him to meet them about eight miles west of US 27 to join in the investigation.

The marijuana packets were dropped before 8 a.m. The dispatcher at the Belle Glade sub-station, Raymond Plank, said he was told that the sheriff and the U.S. Customs Service helicopter crews were on their way to check the area for the reported marijuana.

The marijuana was wrapped to withstand "a good jolt" when it hit the ground, said Raulerson. It looked like the marijuana was covered on the outside by a heavy material or the type of cloth used by cotton pickers.

Although, the helicopter crews remained in the area for about three hours they did not find additional marijuana packets.

According to a sheriff's office spokesman, a number of hunters and fishermen in the area may have scared the airplane crew members away.

The three packets were found just north of a private hunt camp, said Raulerson. A check conducted did not find anyone in the area connected with the "drop," Raulerson said. Also checked, were all vehicles traveling on the narrow access road, running west of Terry Town.

The marijuana was taken to the sheriff's office in West Palm Beach where it was to be checked for quality and weighed.

Good grade marijuana is estimated to have a street value of $300 a pound but, the price increases along the Eastern seaboard. According to DEA officials marijuana sells at $500 a pound in the New York area.

Pilot G.J. Kehrs along with his crewman Robert Barber and the vice agent made the pickup. They flew the packages to the roadway where it was loaded into Raulerson's patrol car to be taken to Palm Beach.

harassment and cursing in front of children at the new teen center King has opened.

Remarks were exchanged by Slonaker explaining that King did not have a license to operate his business and he listed numerous building code violations. Councilwoman, Cummings expressed her disapproval of profane language in front of children or adults but also maintained that Slonaker was doing his job in inspecting the building.

The council voted to abandoned S.W. 6th and 7th Streets in the city in the Crosby subdivision but to leave S.W. 3rd Ave. as it is.

William Howard Taft was the U.S. He weighed 325 pounds.

Pahokee backs band

A funny thing happened to the Blue Devil marching band on the way to the Class AA football championship finals.

Everyone, including band director Ollie Davis, Jr., expected the team to be playing in Wildwood Friday night, and travel expenses for the band were expected to be about $1,000 to rent two buses.

But Wildwood lost last weekend to Blountstown, west of Tallahassee in the Florida Panhandle, which added about 250 miles to the band's trip and about $2,000 more for bus rental.

The hometown came through for the home team, though, and a fund-raising drive had gained about two-thirds of the needed funds by Tuesday afternoon.

Truck broker Mickey Griffiths, who spearheaded the drive with Frank and Don Branch, said he expected to raise the entire $3,000.

"We wanted to support the band and the team. They have done a great job this year," he said.

Band members were ecstatic about the chance to accompany the team on the last leg of the championship race and said they wanted to make sure the Blue Devils have fans cheering for in Blountstown.

Band director Davis said he is gratified at the support shown by the community.

"I didn't even have to call anyone. They called me," he said.

Davis said the band has been to every football game this season, except one that conflicted with a county band competition. Travel expenses are usually raised by the band members and the Band Parents Association by selling advertisements for football game programs and other fund-raising activities.

Council supports band trip

PAHOKEE - The City Council unanimously voted to donate $100.00 to the Pahokee High School band to help send them to the Class 2A state championship football game in Blountstown this Friday.

In other action, the council approved the East Beach Water Control District's resolution to have buildings set back 30 feet from all District Canals.

Councilman Robert Welty expressed concern over the effect it would have on existing structures, so City Attorney Ralph Johnson agreed to draw up the agreement with such provisions.

In a concerned about flood insurance, Ray Histon, councilman, suggested getting recommendation from the city's insurance representative and from Everglades Federal on the status of flood insurance.

A public hearing will be held to determine if Pahokee is in the flood zone. "Being in this zone adds $10-15 to monthly payments when buying a home," Mayor Padgett said. If Pahokee is out of the flood prone area, loans would not be affected. According to Padgett, the only flood covered by the insurance is flood from the ground - this would exclude hurricane floods.

'Inexperience, fouls hurt'--Coach Seider

Raider roundballers lose first three

BELLE GLADE - What was thought to be strictly a "building year" for the Glades Central basketball team may turn out to be more than that according to head coach Jay Seider.

The Raiders lost their third game of the year Tuesday night to John L. Leonard, 89-57, too late for The Herald to receive any details of the game.

The Raider roundballers have lost on close decisions in their first two outings but neither opponent managed to run away with the game and Seider said the main difference so far has been lack of experience.

Ranked 4AAAA Lake Worth handed the Raiders their first loss, 80-68, and Fort Myers squeezed past the local team, 87-72 on their second outing.

Seider said fouls and performance at the free throw line made the difference in the Fort Myers game, repeating the story of the final three quarters of play against powerful Lake Worth.

"This is a young, inexperienced team," Seider said, "but they haven't been looking that bad. All they need is a little more game experience."

Seider said the team's inexperience (Alonzo Perkins is the only senior and the only player returning from last year's team) led to three turnovers in the final 2:05 minutes of the game against Fort Myers and four players had fouled out before the end of the game.

"We lost both games at the free throw line," he said. "Inexperience led to a lot of foolish fouls - about 35 in each of the first two games. We only managed to score on about 50 percent of the free throws while Fort Myers sank 32 of 42 tries."

Jessie Haynes led the scoring in both games. The junior made 34 points and picked off 10 rebounds against Fort Myers while Barney Mason followed with 17 points and 14 rebounds.

Other scorers in that game were Rufus Chambers with 10 points and five rebounds, Ollie Sheppard with six and one, Alonzo Perkins with four and four, Melvin Weston with three and one, Arthur Slater (the only sophomore), Mike Staples and Butch Strachm, all with two and one.

Seider said the Raiders lost the game against Lake Worth in the first quarter by allowing the coastal team an early ten-point edge they never relinquished.

"We had the same problems as against Fort Myer," Seider said. "Free throws hurt us but we did all right otherwise. Coach Kainman told me after the game he didn't think we'd be this strong."

Haynes was the only double-digit scorer in the Lake Worth game, scoring 29 points and pulling in five rebounds.

Haynes was followed by Sheppard with nine points and a rebound, Weston with eight and one, Perkins with six and four,

Chambers with five and four, Staples with four and five, Mason with three and eight, Strachm with two points, Edgar Arnett with two and two and Joe Byrd and Craig Knowles with a rebound each.

After this week's play, with home games Tuesday, Friday and Saturday, Seider said the Raiders would next enter the Fort Myers Christmas tournament.

The first admiral of the U.S. Navy was David S. Farragut, who was appointed in 1866.

Gators are champions

Members of the Belle Glades Little League champion Gators team gather around the trophies and other awards presented Monday night at a victory banquet. Head coach Wayman Graves said the superlatives for the year included Joe Spangler as best defensively, Lenny Collings as best offensively, Lenny Collins as most valuable player, Richard Schiele as most improved player and Scott Meredith as rookie of the year. The Gators won the championship game on Nov. 20 and had a 5-1 season.

Dandy Stanley

Former Glades Central star quarterback Wayne Stanley is congratulated by Iowa State University head football coach Earle Bruce at a recent football banquet at Iowa State when Stanley was named winner of the Ruben Miller Award, the school's highest football honor. The award is for the player making the greatest contribution on and off the field.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

When I was in Uncle Sugar's Air Force a few more years ago than I like to remember, one of the things I thought would be a good idea would be to unionize the servicemen.

Only thing is that I was joking...even if it did sound pretty good at the time.

"I ain't standing no KP man. I got my rights and if you try to push to, I'm gonna take it up with the shop steward."

That would be pretty good because I don't think anybody could ever say enlisted men enjoyed KP. Then we could've always drawn overtime for guard duty after hours...and I don't recall any guard duty I ever pulled that wasn't after hours.

Course the pay is already more than four times what I started at but that shouldn't be too hard to get increased anyway. Face it, the ability to get a raise hasn't depended on fairness or need for years in union-organized jobs.

What draws the pay increases is the ability to convince your boss there ain't nobody else to hire to do the job and one thing's for sure. There's only one Army, one Air Force, one Navy and one Marine Corps in the U.S. of A.

And if they're all unionized, it'll be pretty hard to get the Marines, for instance, to scab for the government when the Army goes on strike.

I can see it now. The servicemen are on strike and somebody decides that's a good time to invade.

Just about the time the first landing barge pulls up on the first beach, enemy troops find the strand picketed by GI's trying to get the other guys to call a sympathy strike.

Course the best idea would be to call in old Ed Ball, Shoot, the veteran of the FEC would probably recruit the enemy to scab for us and knock our own forces right into the unemployment lines.

The strike I'm waiting to see come about though is when the farmers finally get tired of coming out on the short end of the economic stick so often and say, "The heck with it, I ain't growing another ear of corn until I start getting something for it."

Like one guy told Bob Lee a couple of years ago, "I don't care about agriculture so long as everything's fine down at the supermarket."

But try keeping that supermarket full when all the farmers in the country are on strike. I just don't believe imports would handle the problem.

They could bring in all the food they could buy from other countries and it still wouldn't make a dent in the demand of the American consumer. There isn't another country in the world who could produce enough to satisfy us, or any combination of countries.

Can't you just imagine the expression on the faces of the people who get such glee out of picketing supermarkets because they're carrying grapes picked by the scab labor in California, saying they want the poor farm laborer to get paid more, then turn right around and picket the same supermarket because the price of their grapes is too high when the farm laborers are unionized.

These are the same people who cried over "Harvest of Shame" and the NBS White Paper on Belle Glade and then "Shame" and the NBC White Paper on Belle Glade and then to ripen them all at the same time they get even more upset because Mexicans couldn't import more of their "luscious" tomatoes (which had also been gassed).

You just can't satisfy some people. And those are probably the same people who find it so hard to learn the lesson that the American farmer is the most successful in the world because he's able to produce more food at a lower price than any other farmer in the world.

But like the veteran school principal said, you can't teach some people anything until you get their attention. To get their attention, you take one two by four...

Letter to the editor

Dear Sir:

Much publicity has been given, recently to well-known people who are recovered alcoholics. Persons like Dick Van Dyke, former Senator Charles Hughes, and big league pitcher, Don Newcombe, are to be commended for their willingness to tell of their victory over alcoholism.

There are many in our society who are total abstainers, people who have not gone through the agonies of alcoholism and been forced to abstain for medical purposes. These, too, deserve publicity. I firmly believe that our youth especially need to know that there are many wonderful people in our society who do not include drinking of alcoholic beverages as part of their life style.

I am compiling a list of people who are total abstainers of this type. Please have your readers, well-known or otherwise, if they are willing to let it be known that they are total abstainers, to give us their names and any comments they might like to pass on to others. I am especially interested in hearing from coaches, sports figures, medical people, entertainers, and others who work or have worked with youth.

Sincerely yours,

Sports Editor:

Sir:

Our (more-or-less) regular reporter failed to write up the score, so I "subbed" this time.

The bowlers all enjoyed seeing a column again, and eagerly buy a copy of the paper hoping to see their name. Your time and effort are appreciated.

You're a good lad, Bill

We thought we'd have great things out of Bill Bailey when he was elected to represent the Glades on the Palm Beach County Commission but we didn't think they'd come so soon.

Whether Bill was the commission who made the motion last Tuesday which could correct a long-standing inequity by creating an unincorporated area municipal service taxing district.

The motion, unanimously passed by Bailey and his fellow commissioners, is meant to stop the age-old practice of double taxation for residents of cities who traditionally pay both city taxes for municipal services rendered as well as county taxes for both services rendered and services they never see.

Of course this meant residents in unincorporated areas were getting services which were being subsidized by the city residents.

Persons living outside municipal limits and who own property have been paying a special tax the past two fiscal years to support the sheriff's road patrol. The new ordinance will expand, or could expand, those special taxes for other municipal-city services.

All of which means people living outside city limits will be getting more services but they'll be footing the bill...as they should be.

Thanks, Bill

Editorials Comment and Viewpoint

Make it with, not against, fellers

And then there's one of the other two new county commissioners.

George Wedgworth and a few other members of the top brass in the sugar industry said they were expecting a renewal of the air-pollution vendetta being waged by the County Commissioner Dennis Koehler.

Koehler attempted during the campaign to persuade a lot of people he had changed his mind about the necessity of burning of sugar before it's harvested.

He succeeded with some people in the Glades area but he's proven the vast couple of weeks it's awfully hard for the leopard to change its spots.

It seems Koehler's first target, or one of his first, after being seated on the commission and winning the chairmanship of the county's Environmental Management Committee, is the elimination of the agricultural exemption from the county's Environmental Control Act.

Surprise! Surprise!

It's also ironic, but no more out of character, to note that in a letter mis-addressed to Wedgworth (although he's managed to mail quite a bit of correspondence in the past to Wedgworth's correct address) that he calls for the cooperation of the sugar industry while in a memo to a county employee, he refers to "the pollution control battle with the agricultural industry that seems to lie ahead."

It's to Wedgworth's credit he responded to the call for cooperation and pointed out that the agriculturalists in the area would also like to work with county officials on agriculture-related problems instead of battling with them.

It's also to the Florida Sugar Cane League's credit that they offered to share data from the League's pollution measuring system, which is much more comprehensive and sophisticated than the county's.

Koehler is one of those types of public figures - certain media people might call him a hero - a heroic representative of the masses locked in battle with the "powerful monied interests of the rural agri-industrialists."

County Commissioner Bill Bailey, on the other hand, was represented as having received many campaign donations from big farmers such as Wedgworth.

Odd that the reporter, an quite conceivably of the idea that Bailey might honestly believe the agricultural exemption should stand, at least until a stronger argument is made against it than the readings off one measuring device placed in a place that would yield ambiguous results to say the least.

And that, according to the one reporter, seems to be the reason Koehler's arguments in-favor of removing the agricultural exemption has failed at this time.

Probably no one in the Glades really enjoys the "black snow" whenever cane fields are being burnt but there is also probably no one in the Glades who doesn't realize the benefits which come along with those small discomfords.

That occasional rain of soot is a sign of the most lucrative field crop in the state unless all citrus products are bound together under one heading and there are don't receive some advantage from that fact.

The sugar industry has literally sent thousands of dollars up in smoke in the form of scrubbers on the smokestacks in the area. That's only right; just as it's also right for the industry to continue research in an attempt to find a way of mechanically harvesting cane without the necessity of burning the fields.

But until residents in the Glades start really complaining about bad air problems, let's not kill the gilt-egg laying goose.

Voice from the wilderness...

By Andy Campanaro

If blasphemy can be interpreted as knocking other things beside God, then I hereby admit I have been blasphemous about Belle Glade. Not any more, I don't think, than any free spirit who never quite finds at home anywhere in man's world, or any high school senior eager to split himself from the known and ordinary; to experience the world and all its pleasures" (?)

Fact is, I never really knew what I felt about this town until I found myself coming in on 441 from Palm Beach Sunday night, and saw the moonlight beauty of the Glades. A friend of mine mentioned the other night that it was beautiful around here. Fact is, it can be, without all the black snow and factory smoke hazing up the Glades. But at night, with the moon shining on the stagnant water and the radio towers of man's presence shining far away lights across the shadown, almost scary swamps, it is downright, pure beautiful.

And I never understood about that 1928 hurricane. "Water got a little high and people didn't know how to swim," I figured. Then I saw Sunday night just how unprotected this town is. I mean, there ain't nothing still between God's fury and this town except air.

Couple this with some of Lawrence Willis' writings I'm getting into (guess that's standard fare for home folks, but don't forget, I'm barely a month old here) and I'm really beginning to appreciate the courage and fortitude of the Glades people in sticking to their town and their trades and their lives here.

I'm just an old reporter-advertising man fellow, but I can tell you if this old boy is here two years hence, there's gonna be one heluva Hurricane Special Edition. Moore Haven had a special edition they're proud of on their 50th anniversary of their 1928 hurricane. If you'll all help me by buying an ad for that 1928 edition, we'll put out a whang-danger. Meanwhile, let's hope we don't have to "celebrate" the first anniversary of a 1977 hurricane (perish the thought).

As long as I'm talking about my feelings here, it interests me to see the young ones scurrying around in these canals, catching toads, turtles and occasional snakes like it was everyday. Heck, I've got mountain-men relatives in Noo Yawk who won't go south of the Carolina because "everybody knows there's more poisonous snakes there than there be humans."

Can't convince those boys up there, but as Earl Meredith says: "The less yankees, the better off we are." Gotcha, Earl.

Fun After Fifty club meets

The FAFF (Fun After Fifty-Five) Club held its monthly meeting on Dec. 7 at 12 noon in the Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church of Pahokee.

The tables and room were beautifully decorated in the Christmas theme by Mrs. Ruby Kemp. A covered dish meal was enjoyed by the 37 people present.

Lyrene to speak

Dr. Paul Lyrene, president of the Lake Okechobee Audubon Society was in charge of their meeting at 8 p.m., Dec. 9 at the First Methodist Church in Clewiston.

Dr. Lyrene, presented to the members and guests excerpts from a book "Fundamentals of Ornithology by Josselyn van Tyne and Andrew J. Berger," published by Dover Publishing Company.

The book traces and explains how birds evolved from reptiles and the systematic pattern in which the feathers are formed and shaped and how the same species of birds, in different parts of the world have different signals and different songs.

Dr. Lyrene's tape on bird songs made us realize how many birds we hear regularly but never have identified and to identify some that we had often wondered about," Audubon member Mrs. Marguerite Rife said.

In addition to our regular members and their guests, she said "two school children from Belle Glade had received special permission from their parents to come to Clewiston to hear Dr. Lyrene's lecture and hear his recording of bird songs."

The family wishes to thank all who remembered them in their prayers and other acts of kindness during their hour of sadness.

Mrs. Brneda Vereen and son Adrian of Ocala spent the weekend in Belle Glade with her in-laws.

She motored here and back through plenty of rain but reported that they arrived back home safely.

If you haven't done all of your Christmas shopping, then please do drive carefully to and from your destination.

When Euphenia Marcella Vereen Morris made her appearance in Belle Glade on Thanksgiving, her mother, Mrs. Shirley Morris didn't know it but the event was noticed as far away as Congress, as the following letter shows.

Dear Euphenia, I have just learned of your arrival and I want to congratulate you on your good judgment in selecting the greatest state in the Union as the place of your birth and citizenship. To help your parents take the best care of you, I felt you might like to have a copy of the popular book, entitled "Infant Care".

I want to know you have a friend in your Congressman who is interested in your growth, health and welfare and I stand ready and willing at all times to aid you whenever I can.

With kind regards and best wishes, I am,

Sincerely yours,

Paul Rogers, M.C.

P.S. When you reach the age of one year, if your mother will write me I shall be glad to send her a booklet entitled "Your Child from One to Six".

Fashion show directors of Celebrity Jewelry for the Glades area, Mrs. Dorothy Phillips and Mrs. Maude Vereen, along with hostesses Linda Laws of Pahokee, Alma Henry and Diane Kyles of Belle Glade, traveled to Miami this past Sunday to attend a luncheon held at the Ramada Inn near the Miami International Airport.

The room was beautifully decorated with the Christmas spirit.

Each fashion show director was given a pink and purple corsage which was pinned on with the Celebrity Crystal clip pin.

Dressed in winter white attire, all the hostesses who attended were highly honored, and each received a Christmas souvenir with her name engraved on it.

Door prizes were given and all three of the Glades hostesses received a door prize. Also the hostesses entered 10 other categories: 1. Best Versatility-Alma Henry 2. Youngest Mother Diane Kyles 3. One of the 19 highest shown for the luncheon-Linda Laws.

With a total of six prizes coming to the Glades, this gave them the incentive to keep on being celebrity hostesses.

So, ladies and gentlemen, we the fashion show directors of Celebrity invite you to join the dazzling world of Celebrity Jewelry.

There is a reward at the top of . . .

THE CLIMB

THE CHURCH IN THE CHURCH

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for men and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Even when you know the proper way to climb with skis and the way up becomes easier, it still exerts you. However, the way is made even less of an effort when you think of the rewarding ride down.

The reward of an eternal life with God is easier still because it is a gift.

"For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Attend church . . . learn more of this wonderful gift.

Coleman Adv. Ser.

Mrs. Sirju dies

Mrs. Violet Beatrice Sirju of Trinidad in the British West Indies, wife of the late Carl Ewart Sirju, mother of an only son, Clive of Inc. Pointe, A. Pierre, Trinidad, and an only daughter, Mrs. Barbara Hatch of 155 N. Flame Avenue, Pahokee, Florida; grandmother of Peter Chin Aleong, now of Maryland; and Mrs. Bonnie Brady of Pahokee; great-grandmother of Christine Brady, died quietly in her sleep at her home, 90 Sutton Street, San Fernando, Trinidad on Monday, November 1 at 9:30 p.m., after a very long illness. She was instrumental in helping to raise her younger sisters and brothers when she was just a teenager, after the death of mother. Also, she helped to be a mother to many nieces and nephews. She was loved by many, as the Rev. Canon W. A. Lamont of St. Paul's Anglican Church on Wednesday November 3 at her funeral services so eloquently spoke of her as a true Christian woman. St. Paul's choir was in full attendance to a packed church. Burial arrangements were conducted by Clark and Battoo Funeral Home, who are to be commended on their work. Bearers were her son, Clive and all others were her nephews. Mrs. Sirju was 86 years of age at the time of her death. She was born and raised in San Fernando, Trinidad, B.W.I., and attended St. Paul's Church from her childhood until her illness several years ago. Her mother lived with her son, her daughter, Barbara, wife of John M. Hatch lives in Pahokee with her family for the past fourteen years. Mrs. Hatch last visited her mother in the summer of 1973. It was always her wish that her mother would one day visit Pahokee but this did not happen in all the years. Her mother could not visit here and she took this time to give tribute to wonderful, loving and warm friend her mother.

HARRY FRANKLIN presents certificates for turkeys to the Rev. Robert Pollitt as foundation members Gene Cross, Louise Taylor, Mattie Lealand, Katherine Price and Jewel Crane as Belle Glade Mayor Ralph Kirk watch.

Catherine Price Foundation provides food for 5 families

BELLE GLADE—At least five under privileged families in the Belle Glade area, and another five in Pahokee, will be eating a good Christmas dinner they might not otherwise have...thanks to the joint effort of Southeast Cablevision, Inc. and the Katherine Price Foundation.

The local Cable TV company donated certificates to the Katherine Price Foundation for ten turkeys last week and the foundation is going to be soliciting funds to buy "the trimmings" for the meals.

Harry Franklin, manager of the Cable TV company, presented the certificates to the Rev. Robert Pollitt, vice-chairman of the Foundation.

Franklin said the donation is in connection with a promotion the company now has in progress by which any new customer who signs up for service at Southeast Cablevision before Dec. 23 will get a free turkey.

Rev. Pollitt said members of the foundation will be in strategic places next week, between Dec. 18 and 24, soliciting donations from Glades residents to fill out the meals.

Belle Glade Mayor Ralph Kirk has agreed to declare that week Katherine Price Week in the city in recognition of the charitable work done by Mrs. Price over the past 40 years.

"It is also," Rev. Pollitt said, "to carry on her work by the Katherine Price Foundation, Inc., which is a private charity agency composed of Glades residents."

"By granting this petition," Rev. Pollitt told Mayor Kirk, "you will encourage local residents to become members of the Katherine Price Foundation and you will help us raise funds during the week of Dec. 18-24 to buy Christmas food baskets for needy families in the Glades."

Rev. Pollitt also invited Kirk and all other residents to become members of the foundation by donating annual dues of $5 or more for 1977. He said the next meeting of the foundation will take place Jan. 13 at St. Philip Benizi Catholic Church in Belle Glade.

"One of the problems we face," Rev. Pollitt said, "is that these families aren't hungry just on Christmas Day. They'll be hungry the day after too."

FAU expands program

Florida Atlantic University will expand its successful Belle Glade program during the winter quarter.

Currently 43 area students working towards a master's degree are taking evening courses at Gove Elementary School. The classes are a part of the FAU Classroom Teachers Association Co-operative Education master's program in administration and supervision.

The new course "Organization and Administration of American Education" will be offered Mondays, 4:30 to 9:20 p.m., beginning Jan. 10. Dr. Dan Weppner will instruct the class. In addition, FAU's Department of Curriculum and Instruction in the College of Education will offer "Elementary School Curriculum" on Tuesday evenings from 4:30 to 9:20 beginning Jan. 11. Dr. Patricia Carter will teach. Tuition is $110 for either course.

"These programs permit teachers from Belle Glade, Clewiston, LaBelle, Moore Haven, and Pahokee to complete a master's degree program without setting foot on FAU's Boca Raton campus," Dr. Weppner explained.

Addition courses have also been added at FAU's West Palm Beach Center as part of the CTA-FAU cooperative program. Registration for contract courses will be at the 1st class session. For additional information call FAU at 395-5100, ext. 2817.

Glades receives heart equipment as a gift

Thanks to a small corps of volunteers and a gift from the Palm Beach County Chapter of the American Heart Association, Glades area residents can now learn how to save a life.

In a ceremony Thursday at Glades General Hospital, Heart Association board members Mrs. Guy Wood and Mrs. Edward Duda presented Mrs. Bonnie Peacock, R.N., with a Resusc-A-Ne, a Resusc-Baby and a "Pulse of Life" film.

"This equipment will be used in the instruction of cardio pulmonary resuscitation (CPR)," said Mrs. Peacock, who is a CPR instructor-trainer. "It is available for use by all CPR instructors and will be stored here at the hospital."

CPR is the life-saving technique of mouth-to-mouth breathing and closed chest massage, used to keep blood circulating and oxygen going to the brain in victims of heart attack, near drowning, electrocution, drug overdose or allergic reaction.

Resusc-A-Ne and Resusc-Baby are two life-size mannequins used in the course given to teaching CPR. The Mannequins are life-like and give realistic reactions to the application of both the mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and the closed heart massage techniques taught in the course.

Before being passed through the course and receiving a card from the Association, each student must successfully apply the CPR techniques, both individually and as a two-person team, to the mannequins.

Mrs. Peacock has instructed a number of classes in the Glades area on CPR as well as nine instructors in Belle Glade and two more in Pahokee.

"We hope to have courses going on all the time," said. "We should eventually be able to train every adult in this area who wants to learn." She then thanked the Heart Association for making this equipment available.

Mrs. Wood praised Mrs. Peacock and the instructors for their dedication and said she was sure the community would be interested in and supportive of their efforts.

Mrs. Duda, who is also a registered nurse, urged all residents to attend a six-hour CPR course. "It could save a loved one," she said. Mrs. Wood noted

Mrs. Duda had used CPR methods in two different instances several years ago, pointing out this was proof of the value of the training. The CPR instructors in Belle Glade are Bonnie Bell, R.N., Patricia Hood, R.N., Rebecca Grigolet, R.N., Larry Lamb, Marion Morris, R.N., Helen Murray, R.N., Warren Street and Jesse Womack. In Pahokee, they are Robert Shackford and Robert Welby.

For information on setting up or attending a CPR course, contact Mrs. Peacock at 996-6571 or Robert Shackford at 924-5201.

American Viewpoints

And in the end, through the long ages of our quest for light, it will be found that truth is still mightier than the sword.

minding the store...

By Andy Campanaro

Richmond Plumbing is changing location and expanding their horizons this month. According to Larue Tripp of that company, they are moving to some 15,000 square feet of space in South Bay on U.S. 27 north of that town across from Henderson Trailer Park.

The reason? Richmond does as much work on the west side of Okeechobee as here and they feel South Bay puts them right in the center of the action...a feeling that more and more people, newly arrived to the area mostly have.

It isn't just Belle Glade or Pahokee or Clewiston anymore. More and more it's becoming THE GLADES. Obviously Richmond thinks that way.

You don't have to worry about the Belle Glade Richmond office, though, as Hydraulic Supply Company is expanding, too, and have bought the rest of their building on SE 1st Street. They're doing it up proud with putting a new beam roof on the building for the second floor which will have much storage space.

The only problem there is the apartments that used to be upstairs won't be anymore, and in the lousy housing situation in Belle Glade, every unit counts.

Nancy Lee Moses, whose picture may or may not be on this page (I never did figure out how to use that little black box) is now an agent for B.D. Cole, Inc. as of this month.

Ms. Moses has had years of insurance experience, starting in Belle Glade in 1965 with her late husband, John E.

She has worked for Coastal Underwriters, the Bureau Insurance Company, State Farm Insurance, and, as mentioned, with her husband.

A Matron of the Eastern Star, she holds down three jobs - her new job at Cole, a ceramics shop at her home - 1108 NE 1st Street - and a housewife. She has four children - although the pay for mothering isn't what it should be these days.

"I would like to have all my friends and past customers visit me at my new office," Ms. Moses said. "I still say: Friendly service is my aim."

While in the Cole office, this cornbread-fed Yankee found a lot of company. Ms. Moses's co-worker, Sharon Lottes is from Canandaigua, N.Y., about 80 miles from my father's family in Utica, and Gloria Palmer is from Wisconsin.

The boss at Cole is Jim "Catfish" Hunter and he hails from Ohio, so we're all transplanted here in Belle Glade together and enjoying the balmy breezes. (By the way, just in passing, Gloria is real pretty and single for all you joyful males out there, but she claims a 6'5" 210 pound boyfriend. Methinks I'll stick to my record collection Saturday night).

I've been trying to get this in for two weeks now. That new car dealer I talked about some time ago in Pahokee is Gordon Carter from Secon, Alabama (no claimed relation to Jimmy).

Born and raised in Secon, Mr. Carter went to high school there and received an accounting degree from Auburn University. After college, he worked in the CPA firm of Ernst & Ernst, then crossed state lines to Jacksonville where he was with the Blue Cross of Florida. Back to Columbus, Georgia, he got into the auto sales business with Buick-Cadillac before coming to Belle Glade.

Gordon's wife, Jo Ellen, originally hails from Belle Glade so she's real happy at being back in muck country. They have one child, Thomas Gordon Carter, Jr., one year old, and Carter is a member of the Elks.

I'm glad to be here in Pahokee and I'm going to make my business more responsive to the service needs of those customers who have patronized this business over the years," Carter said.

The Peddlers Cart of Canal Point is bringing the work and teaching of a professional artist here in mid-January.

Bunny Coppe, currently showing an exhibit at Key Biscayne in Miami, will be at Peddlers Cart about mid-January for an exhibit of her work and painting classes.

Betty Wade, of that business, would like anyone interested in attending the painting classes under Ms. Coppe's direction to phone 924-2959 to register. Exact dates and hours and fees have not been set, although enough interest to generate at least one class has been shown.

Ms. Coppe currently lives in Indiantown and shows around Florida. Born and educated in Chicago, she attended Fenger Junior College, the Art Institute of Chicago and Instituto Allenda, San Miguel de Allende, Mexico. She often paints on location and, in addition to her work in watercolor, she has painted several murals and often works in acrylic, oil and mixed media.

"Our main purpose is to expose the community to a well-known artist, her method of work, and her work," said Ms. Wade.

On The Consumer's Side...

If you have any questions, please write to Mrs. Lee F. Rumbley, Consumer Services Coordinator, The Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, The Mayo Building, Tallahassee, Florida 32304.

In keeping with the season we, in the Division of Consumer Services, wish to offer some planning hints for insuring that your holidays will be safe and happy.

TREES

A fresh tree will stay green longer and be less hazardous than a dry tree. To check for freshness, remember:

* A fresh tree is green and the needles are hard to pull from the branches.

* When bent between your fingers, fresh needles will not break.

* The trunk butt of a fresh tree is sticky with resin.

* When the trunk of a tree is bounced on the ground, needles should not shower to the ground. Place your tree carefully, away from fireplaces, radiators, and other heat sources. See that it is out of the way of traffic and doesn't block doorways.

Cut off about two inches of the trunk, mount the tree in a sturdy, water-holding stand with wide-spread legs. Fasten a large tree to walls or ceilings with thin guy wires; they will be nearly invisible.

Fill the base holder with water. Keep it full of water while the tree is indoors, as you would fresh flowers. Remember that heated rooms dry trees out rapidly, creating fire hazards.

LIGHTS

Indoors or outdoors, use only lights that have been tested for safety. Identify this by the "UL" label from Underwriters Laboratories.

Check each set of lights, new or old, for broken or cracked sockets, frayed or bare wires, loose connections. Discard damaged sets or repair them before using.

Check labels on outdoor lights to see that lights are weather-proof. Fasten outdoor lights securely to trees, house walls, or other firm support to protect them from wind damage.

Use no more than three sets of lights per single extension cord. Turn off all lights on trees and other decorations when you go to bed or leave the house. Lights could short and start a fire. Never use electric lights on a metallic tree. Although safe when used according to manufacturers' directions, metallic trees can become charged with electricity from faulty lights. Then any person touching a branch could be severely shocked. To avoid this danger, use colored spotlights above or beside the tree.

CANDLES

Never use lighted candles on a tree or near other evergreens. Always use non-flammable holders, and remember to place candles where they cannot be knocked down or blown over.

TRIMMINGS

Use only non-combustible or flame-retardant materials. Choose tinsel or artificial icicles of plastic or non-leaded metals. Leaded materials are hazardous if ingested by children or pets. If you have children, avoid decorations that are sharp or breakable.

RASKING RIDGE, N.J., Dec. 12, 1776 - In the darkest hour of the American Revolution, the blade-thin & acid-arrogant Maj. Gen'l Charles Lee sits in a comfortable upper room of the Widow's White Tavern here, writing letters that border on sedition.

"Entre nous, a certain great man is most dangerously deficient," Lee has written. "He has thrust me into a situation where I have my choice of difficulties. If I stay in this Province, I risk myself & Province is lost forever."

"I have neither guides, cavalry, medicines, money, shoes or stockings," continues Lee in a complaint that Gen'l Washington is hardly in a position to remedy. The commander in chief is now across the Delaware River on the west shore, facing a column of 12,000 British and Hessians with only 3,000 tired and tattered Continentals.

"Tories are in my front, rear and on my flanks," Lee, who nevertheless has seen fit to spend the night in isolated comfort here with only four aides and a guard of 15 men. He is some three miles from his command of 4,000 Americans whom he has not yet seen fit to join with Washington's force.

I found Gen'l Lee more easily than I had expected simply by inquiring of many of those Tories in the countryside. I had decided not to bring my indignant colleague Ellis on this quest.

Ellis would no doubt also disapprove of the devious means I found necessary to obtain a copy of Lee's letter this afternoon to Maj. Gen'l Horatio Gates. Indeed, Gen'l Lee may not even know of my visit to White's Tavern as yet. I did not see him.

The 46-year-old Lee, second in command to Gen'l Washington, and the most experienced military man in the Continental Army, has been treated with greatest deference by Gen'l Washington. Yet he has placed the American cause in peril by his strange reluctance to join forces with Washington.

Gen'l Washington has made a desperate appeal to Philadelphia citizenry to come and join him facing the British at the Delaware. The Congress is rumored to be fleeing to Baltimore. Only Robert Morris, one of the few delegates who still opposes independence, (although he did sign the Declaration), has had the courage to remain in the city and attempt to raise money and supplies for Gen'l Washington.

Charles Lee probably has illusions of saving the American cause by some kind of magnificient blow on the British and Hessian regulars. To his discredit, his motive seems to be more personal than patriotic. He covets Washington's appointment.

"I am in hopes to reconquer (if I may so express myself) the Jerseys. It was really in the hands of the enemy before my arrival," Lee wrote to Gates three days ago.

Two days ago, Gen'l Washington sent a dispatch to Lee almost begging the man to join him. "I cannot but request and entreat you and this, too, by the advice of all the Gen'l officers with me, to march and join me with your whole force."

F.S. Tonight I am with Lee's troops, who are ill clothed and exhausted as Washington's men. Their commander may be a professional soldier and scholar who speaks several languages. He may be bright and he may be clever.

But as Charles Lee ponders his strategy in that tavern three miles from here - splendidly isolated from his shivering soldiers - he may be destroying the last hope of the American cause.

In the estimation of this correspondent, Gen'l Lee is not a means of deliverance - He is a menace.

ABUNDANCE

It is said that we do not value what we have until we have lost it. Most Americans have many luxuries far in excess of their needs — not just the bare necessities of life. Where else in the world could one have so much? Millions of people throughout the world would be so very thankful just to have sufficient rice or bread to fill their stomachs. Here in America we not only have rice and bread but every variety and type of food possible to procure. One may purchase as much of any one thing as he or she is able. All anyone has to do is to leave this great country and visit some of the less fortunate countries and then return to be so very thankful for the abundance of everything we have in America.

Our pristine heritage embodied in the flag of the United States, is as alive today as it was when written for the ages in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution for all Americans. We have the traditions of Washington, Jefferson, and Hamilton. We have a privilege, a right, and a duty. While we may disagree as to the methods, — that of preserving the greatest democratic society the world has ever known. Our flag is a symbol, not of sentiment, but of history, the history of men and women willing to live and die for the principles which it represents with us still, because daily we experience more of the meaning of the words — ours — because we are Americans.
